Scene Analysis for The Diary of Anne Frank Each scene you are in require one of these.
To help you to become more believable (which leads to spontaneity), you must get to know your character and the scene you are in. Analyzing your scene will help you with this.
From your character's point of view, analyze each scene by explaining why? Why is your character saying what they are saying? Why is your character doing what they are doing? Why are the other people in the scene doing what they are doing? Saying what they are saying? Knowing this gives your character motivation for why they are on the set at that time.
